Exhibitor testimonials

"Sustainability is growing in importance, and the Chinese marketplace is huge. Customers have been looking for these products for over five years already. In general, the technical textile market has improved strongly since the pandemic, as it is a niche market. New requirements, such as energy-saving, are becoming more important. This gives rise to higher market demand. The best thing about this fair is that we can connect with a lot of our customers."

Mr Gerd Schmitz, General Manager, Lindauer Dornier GmbH

DORNIER

"As a German company producing automotive interior accessories, we are eager to expand into the Chinese market. Cinte Techtextil China, as a leading trade fair for this country's technical textiles and nonwovens industry, can help us quickly reach out to automotive OEMs, auto parts dealers and other precise customer groups, thus enhancing our company's visibility in China. Being in the European Zone helps reinforce our branding."

Positive buyer feedback

"This is our second time at Cinte Techtextil China since 2018. This year, our company wants to look for some innovative and brand-new materials for our products, and this is a good platform where these kinds of products will be presented. We are pleased to have found some new exhibitors we're interested in, and we will meet our existing suppliers here later on to discuss on our further cooperation. We are satisfied with the range of brands and companies attending the show, since we could find what we needed."

Lee Jung Wook, Senior Research Engineer, Hyundai Motor Group

China International Nonwovens Conference

At every edition, the renowned conference features the unique perspectives of a variety of leading speakers from across the nonwoven spectrum.

Product presentations

An effective platform for exhibitors to showcase their latest innovations to manufacturers, retailers, press, and more.

Fringe speaker's comment

"I showcased two products for the nonwovens sector: our organic-based solvent system antimicrobial products, and our newly launched water-based antimicrobials with environmentally friendly attributes. This is our third time as guest speakers, as the forum is an efficient means for in-depth communication with industry players, and to know more about end-customer demand. The concurrent activities provide great support, as we can find potential buyers every time."
